the Old and the New at

Middlebury College
When Gamaliel Painter died

He was Middlebury's Pride..."

Middlebury, Vermont
"And what is this—?"
A stranger stopped to ask.
The man stood still—looked puzzled. Then he said,
"You ask me what's the name that folks 'round here
Put to the place that sets a-top the hill?
Well now—I guess you're new around these parts.
I'll tell you, seein's you seem to want to know.
That place there we call Middlebury College.
It's nothin' very big, I don't suppose,
But still, it's more'n just a reg'lar college.
It's—what? What makes it more'n just another Place where men can get their higher learnin'?
'S funny . . . . . don't know how I can exactly
Point to any special thing and say,
'Now here's what makes this college seem so diff'ront.'
But wait. I'll tell you what comes to my mind,
When folks go by and say, 'There's Middlebury,'
It's hills—"

"I know," the stranger said. "I know.
It's hills—green hills that curve and seek the sky
And toss their pine-tree heads among the clouds.
It's hills to climb, and hills to set you singing;
Hills to which you look for strength and hope.
But that's not all there is to Middlebury.
The chapel, towering high above the college,
Shooting its strong white spire beyond the sun,
Has years of hopes and dreamings in its timbers.
The boys and girls who climb the chapel steps
Have learned those dreams, have caught them in their souls.
And then the bells, they're Middlebury, too.
They're all the joyous songs that men have sung
Since time began, and Middlebury was.
I would give much to climb these hills again
And fill my eyes with sight of boys and girls
Walking in sunlight, clear-eyed, unafraid—
But I must go.

"Say, mister," said the man.
"How come you know so much about this place?"
The stranger smiled—and
Suddenly was gone;
But as he went, the wind
Flung back his words:
"I am the ghost of Old Gamaliel Painter!"
Well, somehow we had to agree with Gamaliel that Middlebury is more than just a college—that it's high green hills and a chapel crowning them—that it's bells, and that their songs have been, and always will be, part of us. So we've tried to put within these covers the symbol of the Middlebury we know and love, the Middlebury that will live on, no matter what happens.

Still, we couldn't give you a true picture of Middlebury without including some of its newer aspects, some of those strange sights and sounds that have so recently invaded this campus. You will find them all here: bluejackets marching in the street, bluejackets filling Chapel and making it ring with their voices, bluejackets everywhere—"The Fleet's in at Middlebury!" And more than that, the sound of "Taps" on a summer night—the strange feeling of watching history go by in one short summer—the increased seriousness of all of us—the sudden realization of the brevity of our stay here—all these things have made us more keenly alive to the loveliness of a changing Middlebury.

Yet there is one aspect of Middlebury that will never change, and that is the host of traditions and customs embodied in this college. We wanted you to have those to remember, as well, so you will find a little figure sporting through this book who is symbolic of those traditions—one of the original founders of the college, Gamaliel Painter. We've taken some liberties with him, as you will see, but keep an eye out for Gamaliel—you'll recognize him by his cane!

For each generation of Middlebury students the KALEIDOSCOPE preserves a documentation of people and events. If publication of this volume serves no other purpose those who have worked to make it possible under wartime difficulties deserve commendation. It is my belief, however, that the 1945 KALEIDOSCOPE merits a place of distinction among its companion volumes, for between these covers is recorded the answer of Middlebury to the challenge of total war.

By all who examine this book it will be observed that at Middlebury activities and studies basic to a liberal education have not been shelved. It will also be noted that our college has spared no efforts to provide 500 officer candidates with the academic training specified by the Navy.

I believe that our Middlebury men and women now in the service of their country will approve the efforts of the faculty and students to whom has fallen the responsibility of preserving the continuity of the best of Middlebury traditions.

Samuel S. Stratton
Business Manager

GEORGE H. ALLEN

Although a graduate of Princeton and an inhabitant of Fair Haven, Vt., Mr. Allen comprises a most important link in the chain of Middlebury's being. Already Trustee, Secretary, and Treasurer of the College since 1938, he accepted the position of Business Manager in August, 1943.

Assistant

ROBERT D. HOPE

A loyal Middlebury man, Robert D. Hope is at present completing his 30th year of service as Assistant Treasurer of the college. His face is familiar to every student; his office in Old Chapel well-known; his job—a responsible one, deserving of credit.

Treasurer

JORDAN R. SCOBIE

Registrar since 1942, Mr. Scobie has watched hundreds of students enroll in Middlebury College. He has handled facts and figures with unchallenged precision, and, in addition, has won the respect of all who have known him—civilian students, faculty, and, more recently, the Navy.

These are days when the challenge of service comes in many forms to young men and women. Victory must be won, and then utilized to secure permanent freedom and peace. Middlebury College, old in traditions of service through five wars, ever young in vigor and adaptability, has answered the challenge. It believes in its mission to train young men and women, both for their part in winning the war, and for effective leadership in a durable peace. It reaffirms its belief in the liberal arts as the fundamental intellectual discipline for such a task. Go forward, men and women of Middlebury; your college will keep step.

Stephen A. Freeman
Middlebury has been good to its Naval guests. In every possible manner the faculty and student body have helped us to achieve the objectives of our training program. And so I am glad to have this opportunity to say on behalf of the entire unit—thanks; we're happy to be aboard and proud to be a part of Middlebury College.

Lieut. E. M. Clarke

The choice of our own Middlebury College as training center for a Navy V-12 unit was a significant one for all of us. It meant changes for both civilian students and officer candidates, and both wondered just what the results would be. Speaking at the first joint assembly of the two groups, President Stratton reassured the Navy with a most cordial welcome and a desire that the men look upon Middlebury as their college; that their associations with students and faculty would instill in them something of our spirit. At this same assembly, Lieutenant Clarke won the civilian student body's confidence. "We know how genuine is your welcome . . . we all feel that Middlebury College is a mighty friendly harbor in which to drop anchor." Both groups were at once convinced that the step, at first faltering, could now be firm and true. It was, indeed, a step forward!
OFFICERS

COMM. THOMAS F. DUHIGG
(Retired)

A well-known figure on the Middlebury campus was Commander Thomas F. Duhigg, Medical Officer of the Navy V-12 unit. With more than thirty years' Naval experience behind him, the Commander has touched as many as thirty-five to forty foreign shores. He entered the Navy in 1917, and after duty with the Asiatic fleet, decided to remain in the Navy. Commander Duhigg was assigned in May to Middlebury. He arrived early on June 1st, and proved a vital part of the college until the day of his transfer to Tufts College.

LIEUT. ELMER D. WEST

Graduating from Ohio University in 1930, Lieutenant West received his degree of Master of Education at Harvard in 1934, and that of Doctor of Education at the same university in 1935. He became Dean of Stoneleigh College, Rye Beach, N. H., in 1937. Commissioned in April, 1943, he attended Officer Indoctrination School at Columbia University and received training for the V-12 program. With such an excellent background, it is not difficult to understand why Lieutenant West is recognized as such an efficient executive officer.

ENS. DEAN H. HANLEY

A graduate of Pennsylvania State College, Ensign Hanley has had a varied career. After enlistment in September, 1941, he trained at the Naval Training Station, N.O.B., Norfolk, Va., Greenville, N. C., Quonset Point, R. I., and finally at Camp Allen, N.C.T.C., Norfolk, Va. There he served in the Administration Department, the Drill Department, and as Provost Marshall. Transfers came rapidly, until in June, 1943, he went to the Naval Training Station at Bainbridge, Md., where he attended the Indoctrination School for the V-12 program.
ELEANOR S. ROSS
Dean of Women, Middlebury College

A common title, but one holding new meaning for every Middlebury girl who has come to know, respect, and love the woman represented by it. Each year brings new faces, new problems, new experiences; each year these are met with renewed vigor, wisdom, and understanding.

Symbolic of her true worth to Middlebury are the three degrees received here: an A.B. in 1895, an A.M. (Honorary) in 1927, and Doctor of Pedagogy (Honorary), presented at the 1943 Commencement.

Miss Ross, a former graduate of our college, returned to serve as Dean of Women and as Assistant Professor of English in 1915. May she influence the lives of many more Middlebury girls in the future as Dean of Women, Middlebury College.

BOYLSTON GREEN

An unusual illustration of the results of industry is Mr. Green, present Dean of Men at Middlebury College. Better known to most of us as Instructor of English in 1941-42, he rose unobtrusively to the position of Assistant Professor in 1942, and thence to the position he holds today in 1944. As Dean of Men, he hardly remained unobtrusive. On the contrary, he became one of the busiest residents of Old Chapel, yet retained the same easy, gracious manner so characteristic of Mr. Green, instructor of English.

Mr. Green received his A.B. at the University of South Carolina in 1925, his M.A. in 1926, and, more recently, his Ph.D. at Yale in 1941. Such steps have led him forward . . . and upward to the college on the hill.
Conclusive evidence of the justification of a liberal arts education comes to us directly in view of what the liberal arts colleges are doing to train officers for the Army and Navy. These men are being trained in liberal arts colleges, taking few cultural courses, but associated with teachers whose philosophies symbolize the liberal arts idea.

Naturally the very experience of war centralized attention upon the worth of the liberal education and curiously, perhaps, produced a positive appraisal of its value. In reply to the charge of impracticality and inefficiency comes recognition of the practical and effective training of non-vocational study in establishing a sound attitude toward principles of right and wrong and developing a responsiveness to any immediate issue. This is recognition of one important goal of liberal arts institutions—development of sound principles of approach to no specific problem and yet to every problem.

A recent incident has strengthened my confidence in the value of a liberal education. I had the good fortune to talk with John Hicks, back from some ten major engagements on the battle front. He told me there was no doubt in his mind of the values of Middlebury training for a man who goes through what he has just experienced. Such words give heart to us who today man the posts of the liberal arts colleges.

Social Sciences

What you hear is this:
"We'll talk about liberal arts when the war is over. Now is the time to crush the Axis. A fellow doesn't need no training in liberal arts to stick his bayonet into a Jap."

I could go even further: you don't need to know how to read or write to shoot straight. And if such is your present occupation, I am strongly against disturbing you. As far as you are concerned, liberal arts can wait and should wait.

But there are also thousands of students, equipping themselves for war and peace responsibilities, soon to be theirs. The country will need officers, civil servants, executives of every description. Should these future leaders and their auxiliaries dispense with the liberal arts?

Yes, perhaps, if your ambition is to be and stay a private (or the equivalent). With technical skill you can become a sergeant. It's a different story when it comes to being promoted a lieutenant, that's all.

No sooner had the Allies landed in Algeria, than officers were in demand for dealing with local authorities, attending inter-allied meetings, and many such jobs. With an invasion of Europe, what of the social, judicial, educative problems that will multiply?

Liberal arts are keys to the understanding of the outer world. Keys are not just ornamental gadgets. Keys open doors.

The early months of the war shocked us into a sudden realization of our deficiencies in the material implements of warfare and the shock was so severe that every activity, vocation, and endeavor which could not be shown productive of the immediate and desperate needs was classed as "non-essential." It is worth noting that this label has been applied to so many of our normal activities it can mean unimportant only in a limited sense. The axe can fall on a course of action only when it is clear that such yields nothing toward making life more endurable and enjoyable. The menace which threatens us today, however, must be overcome in the material sense and consequently the Liberal Arts college is challenged with a fight for existence.

Let us consider this challenge as an opportunity to demonstrate how the elements of a Liberal Arts education can contribute in a vital way to the solution of the problems facing the world. All hope for the future is centered in the belief that we shall have people available who are trained in understanding the origin and background of the present situation, people who can examine and interpret prospectively events as they occur and thereby provide the economic and diplomatic guidance so necessary in a peaceful world.

The Liberal Arts college needs no further justification.

Organizations
Pan-Hellenic Council occupies a vital position in Middlebury sorority life. Its functions are to govern and improve intersorority relations and to coordinate their varied activities. One of its most important duties is to formulate rules for rushing and to see that these are adhered to by its members. Each year before rushing starts, the president of the Pan-Hellenic Council calls a meeting of all possible candidates for sorority membership. At this meeting she gives them a comprehensive view of the advantages and disadvantages of sororities, and counsels them against a hurried choice. Candidates are entertained in all sorority houses, and are given the opportunity of meeting and visiting with the members of all sororities. By this means, the proper perspective in regard to sororities may be formulated. After a predetermined period of time, the candidates signify their preferences, and from the list of preferences the new members are chosen. Sorority rushing is thus fairly and competently handled.
The Council stimulates greater scholastic achievement among the sororities by awarding a scholastic cup each semester to the sorority which has earned the highest average during that time. It also awards a scholarship each year to a sophomore girl selected on the basis of general academic excellence. The membership of the Pan-Hellenic Council is composed of junior and senior representatives from each sorority, who meet at regular intervals to discuss and find solutions to any problems of sorority government which may arise. The officers of this council during the year 1943-44 were Thirza Benedict, president, and Elizabeth Mercer, secretary-treasurer.
Alpha Xi Delta sorority was founded on April 17, 1893, at Lombard College, Galesburg, Illinois. It is affiliated with the National Pan-Hellenic Council, and at present has over one hundred college and alumnae chapters in the United States. Middlebury's chapter, Alpha Pi, was established in 1925, and since then Alpha Xi's have taken an active part in all phases of college life. This year members have shown special interest in the activities of Campus, Choir, Forum, Mountain Club, and W.A.A. Two Alpha Xi's have been elected to Mortar Board. Lois Hanchett has been the Alpha Xi president this year.

Nationally, the sorority has donated a mobile canteen unit to the Red Cross and is contributing to the support of a young Czech refugee boy.
Delta Delta Delta

Since the sorority’s founding in 1888, the stars and crescent of Delta Delta Delta have always stood for loyalty, friendship, leadership, and active cooperation in every type of campus activity.

The activities of Alpha Iota chapter have been varied, members participating in such organizations as Forum, Campus, Kaeidoscope, Choir and Language clubs. The emphasis this year has been placed on social work and the Middlebury Conference.

The Tri-Delts are doing their part to aid the war effort by making surgical dressings, sewing for the Red Cross, and contributing from their treasury to the China Relief Fund. They were alert to the acute shortage of help at Porter Hospital, and were among the first to volunteer their services as Nurse’s Aids.

In 1897 Kappa Delta was founded at Virginia State Normal, Farmville, Virginia, and in 1940 was established in Middlebury. Its president this year is Jean Voss. The versatility and zeal of the Kappa Deltas are shown by the variety of activities in which they participate. Their members are active in W.A.A., Forum, Mountain Club, Skyline, Choir, and Campus. They also contribute to the war effort. By winning the Pan-Hellenic scholarship cup at final exams last year, the KD's realized one of their ideals, namely that of high scholarship. Nationally, Kappa Delta supports a home for the crippled, and raises money for this hospital fund by such activities as the sale of sorority Christmas seals. Kappa Delta also supports a student loan and endowment fund.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, in 1870. The Gamma Lambda chapter at Middlebury College was established in 1923. Loyal friendship, cooperation, and high scholarship are three of the ideals which the Kappas have tried to emphasize in their college life. The third one was rewarded recently with the Pan-Hellenic scholarship cup. The fact that the KKGs are all-round girls is shown by their membership, interested activity, and leadership in almost all campus organizations. Both nationally and locally the Kappa Kappa Gammas contribute to the support of the Nora Waln Fund and the Foster Parent Plan for refugee children. In these and in many other ways does the sorority succeed in accomplishing its part in the national war effort.
Phi Mu sorority, founded at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia, in 1852, is the second oldest secret organization for women in existence. Middlebury's own chapter, Beta Lambda, was established here in 1925.

In living up to its ideals of service, honor, and truth, Phi Mus have been outstanding in their accomplishments, holding important war positions in the women’s auxiliary services, and cooperating enthusiastically in local war work.

Service to others has a practical application in Phi Mu’s national social service projects; under this heading we find maintenance of scholarship funds for nurses, a Kentucky mountain school and library, and Phi Mu Healthmobiles bringing medical aid to the underprivileged in Georgia.

Phi Mus are prominent at Middlebury in Skyline, Kaleidoscope, Women’s Forum, Student Union, Mortar Board, Dramatics, Choir, and Campus.
The history of Pi Beta Phi is noteworthy in that the Pi Phis were the first national women’s sorority to come to this campus. The Middlebury Chapter was established in 1893. Since then the Pi Phis have made a name for themselves by their enthusiastic participation in college activities, in particular the Campus, the KALEIDOSCOPE, the W.A.A. Council, and the debating team. In addition, Pi Phi members have won various awards, among them the Mortar Board cup which last year went to Dorothy Laux. Pi Phis have showed the same whole-hearted enthusiasm in the war effort as in campus activities, and have given much time and energy to such worthy causes as bandage rolling, Red Cross sewing, hospital work, and maintenance of a foster child.
In 1874 Sigma Kappa was founded at Colby College, Waterville, Maine, and was established at Middlebury in 1911. Sigma Kappa's president for the year 1943-44 has been Mildred Brandner. Locally the activities of this sorority have always been both numerous and varied. This year there are members in W.A.A. sports, Forum, Tone, Mountain Club, Skyline, Humanities, language clubs, Band, Choir, and Dramatics. In addition to these activities, they also participate in war work. Nationally, Sigma Kappa makes annual contributions to the Maine Sea Coast Mission, supplemented by the purchase of magazine subscriptions for the soldiers. Last year two of its members were honored with awards, one with Departmental Honors in the Classics, and the other with election to Phi Beta Kappa.
Gold Cane, founded in 1940 by the independent women, has become a well-established part of campus life. Although a young organization, it is an up-and-coming one. Its members may be found engaging in widely diversified activities, ranging all the way from banging through town with antique frying-pans and lop-sided bed rolls, to spending an afternoon picking beans in the college garden, and incidentally learning a good bit of farming from Mr. Bowles. More serious activities of Gold Caners include bandage rolling for the Red Cross, social work, and active participation in the Student Action Assembly, Kaleidoscope, Campus, Mountain Club, and W.A.A. During its three years of campus life, Gold Cane has well represented the Middlebury tradition embodied in its name.
The Men's Assembly is again functioning smoothly as the Middlebury man's best-organized means of expression. This year, despite the difficulties of a war-time schedule and the diminished number of men on campus, the Assembly has forged ahead under the capable direction of Speaker Michael Kolligian, Secretary Emory Mersereau, and Treasurer William Richardson. The entire group of representatives have worked to establish a spirit of friendly cooperation between civilian and Navy men, and have succeeded admirably in their efforts. Plans have been made to establish a Naval Assembly, which will afford formal representation to the Naval Unit. Conjoint meetings of both Assemblies will be held once a month. The Men's Assembly this semester has investigated and chartered new organizations and regulated fraternity action. The newly organized War Interfraternity Council was approved by the Assembly, and power was given to the Council to govern all interfraternity relations.
The Women's Assembly is the legislative body of the Women's College. Every woman at Middlebury is a part of the Student Government through her chosen representative to the Assembly. The meetings of this group are held once a month in Munroe Hall. Doris Orth, president, presides at these informal meetings. Other officers are Wilma Bunce, vice-president; Mary Elizabeth Wisotzkey, secretary; Gertrude Nightingale, treasurer; and Irene Ruthenberg, Chief Justice. Various committees on charters, the point system, and war work regulate women's activities on campus. The war work committee raises money to support a refugee child under the Foster Parents' Plan. The general aim of the Women's Assembly is towards more independence, and a deeper understanding of the honor system. Group discussions have been held in the dormitories in an attempt to make the honor system an essential part of our lives—to make it fact, not fiction.
Well known on Midd's campus is the Student Life Committee which coordinates all student activities. This year the committee has been enlarged from five to eleven members under the chairmanship of President Stratton. Two new sub-committees were organized by Student Life during the first term. The first, the Ways and Means Committee, comprised of the undergraduate members of Student Life, drew up the college social calendar. The second investigated the overlapping of activities in college organizations. We owe a great debt to the Student Life Committee—to those faculty members, V-12 men, and students who have made this first year of adjustment not one of friction but of cooperation, of friendliness, and of enjoyment for all of us.

Mortar Board

Throughout a busy year the Women's College eagerly looks forward to spring when six junior women are tapped for Mortar Board Society. The putting on of cap and gown, the gold and black mortar board pins, symbolize their right to distinction among us.

Mortar Board, a national honorary organization, has as its aim the perpetuation of Middlebury traditions. Each year its members sponsor Senior Day, Mountain Day for freshman women, and the Mortar Board Breakfast. This year, in addition to its organization of study halls during exams and of senior advisors for freshmen, Mortar Board instituted a vocational guidance program.

Those tapped for Mortar Board last year were Irene Ruthenberg, president; Jean Gordon, vice-president; Doris Orth, secretary; Mary Sparks, treasurer; Ingrid Monk, "Quarterly" editor; and Lois Hanchett.
Membership in Waubanakee is the highest honor Middlebury bestows on undergraduate members of the Men’s College who are outstanding in ability, scholarship, and service to the college. The society, which is distinguished by the sign of the tomahawk, is a self-perpetuating body since its members are selected from the junior class by the retiring members. The tapping ceremony occurs in daily Chapel late in the school year, at which time the quota of nine members may be filled. However, the society's standard is extremely high, as may be easily recognized by the fact that the full quota has not been tapped since 1918. Last spring Paul Davis, Arthur Pepin, Robert Reuman, Thomas Rooney, and David Stebbins were selected for membership in the present school term.

Blue Key, a Middlebury honorary society for undergraduate men, was founded in 1930. Its function is to carry on “The Old Midd Spirit” and to undertake the sound guidance of frosh men by the proper means. The society's activities include the sale of freshman rules and caps, the purchase of awards for championship teams, and the maintenance and conduct of athletic rallies. Twenty-five men are chosen from the three upper classes for membership, and the occasion of their tapping is one of great suspense and excitement among the students. The tapping usually takes place at Chapel service shortly after spring recess, and the new members may be distinguished by their soft blue hats with Columbia blue keys. The organization has been suspended for the duration.

Alchemists' Club

Nineteen hundred and forty-three saw a number of changes and innovations on Middlebury campus, and not the least of these was the reorganization of the Alchemists' Club, which had not met since 1936. The club got off to a fine start under the leadership of Alfred C. Smith, president, Dorothy J. Schroeder, vice-president, Emory C. Mersereau, secretary-treasurer, and Theodore S. Kolzac, A.S., press agent.

Meetings are held once a month, and are highlighted by a guest speaker who may be a student, a professor, or an outside speaker. Whoever he may be, his topic is always of interest, since it deals with research problems of vital import to our civilization.

Membership in the club is open to all sophomores, juniors, and seniors majoring in chemistry, as well as to any student who shows an interest in the club and is approved by the active members. Probably the most notable and most popular of the club's undertakings is the "Open House," held once a year in Warner Science Hall, at which time the uninitiated may spend an evening being amazed, amused, and enlightened by the strange doings and weird effects produced by the Alchemists.
Debating at Middlebury is again being carried on this year under the able leadership of its director and coach, Perley C. Perkins. The schedule is somewhat limited because of war-time conditions, but meetings are definitely planned with Columbia, R. P. I., Colgate, M. I. T., Boston, Williams, Harvard, N. Y. U., and possibly the University of Vermont. With four of last year’s team, namely, John Unterecker, Charles Parker, A.S., John Calhoun, and Constantine Broutsas to furnish veteran talent for the scheduled battles, the season should be a successful one. This group has the second best percentage in Middlebury’s record, and lost only to M. I. T. last year. There is even some glory in this, for the coach of the opposing team was Middlebury’s star debater in 1940. The women’s team has two returning debaters, Josephine Kirk and Betty Aitchison, and a large group of promising tryouts to make a successful year.

The contact offered with other colleges is of lasting value to the participants in that good fellowship is developed, as well as ability to think and speak clearly, and to evaluate facts. Middlebury debates bring to the debaters a knowledge of the world and its problems, and make men and women of ability.
The Black Panthers are back in the swing again; with the advent of the Navy and its musical talent, the Panthers have taken a new lease on life. These thirteen men, with Larry Fitzgibbons, A.S., as business manager, made an auspicious debut at the dance sponsored by the Women’s Forum.

Middlebury has not only the Black Panthers to be proud of, but the Navy Band as well. This band made its first appearance on the field after less than a week of preparation, and added a tremendous amount of spirit to the drilling of the Navy Unit. Credit for the band’s success goes to Lieutenant Clark, sponsor of the group, Mr. Richard Warbasse, who made an idea a reality, and Albert Prybil, A.S., leader of the band.

The Middlebury choir will make no more tours until after the war, but it is definitely continuing its performance at home. Under the leadership of Mr. H. Ward Bedford, the choir leads the college in daily Chapel, sings for vespers, and provides inspiring music at Christmas and Easter.
Drama

Down on Weybridge Street is the place where dramatically-minded students make their headquarters—the Middlebury College Playhouse. It is here that students interested in drama find an outlet for their talents. However, to participate in activities at the Playhouse, one need not be able to act. There are countless other things to be done: painting, lighting, properties, and costumes. These all form an integral part of each play that is produced.

The Middlebury College Players, organized last year through the efforts of Mr. Erie T. Volkert, forms the nucleus of all dramatic activities. It is carrying on its program this year under the leadership of Josephine Kirk. To work at the Playhouse one need not be a member of this group. It is through working there, either in plays or on committees, that one gains membership.

The plan this year is to present three one-act plays under student direction, and a three-act play during each semester. The season has begun successfully with the one-act plays, and the college is looking forward to the next major production, “Kind Lady.”
The French Club, a social group organized for the purpose of giving those interested a chance to learn more about France and the French language, meets once a month in the Chateau under the sponsorship of the French faculty. Here members sing French songs, play games, and present plays. In addition, the French Club sponsors two of the most popular events of the year, the Bacon Bat which takes place on Chipman Hill every fall, and the French Club Formal in the spring. The Bacon Bat, open to the entire college, is famous for its food and songs, while the formal which is held in the Grand Salon at the Chateau is equally popular, but is open only to French Club members and their escorts.

Members of the club are selected from among students of the three upper classes who appear to be most interested in French language and culture.

During the summer the French Club suspended its regular meetings, but the members were invited to all the functions of the French Summer School—concerts, lectures, and plays.

Languages

Le Cercle Français

With the advent of the fall semester the French Club is resuming its regular schedule. The Bacon Bat took place in September. A faculty play will be given at the October meeting while the following month the students will retaliate with a play of their own. This year, due to the changed program, the formal hitherto given in the spring will take place in December, while the two remaining meetings of the semester will be given over to a lecture and an open meeting.

Present club officers include Rose Baruzzi, president; Janet Kemp, vice-president; and Alice Southworth, secretary-treasurer.

The Spanish Club

The new summer term found the Spanish Club with one of its officers, Harriet Bartels, missing from the ranks. However, the club was well-directed from July to November by President Leonore Jenkins and Secretary-Treasurer Barbara Snow.

At the beginning of the term, the Spanish Club had the unusual opportunity of combining with the Spanish Summer School for several of the Summer School’s evening lectures and entertainments. In addition to these more formal meetings, informal contacts with Spanish School students gave an unusual breadth to campus life.

As the term passed, a picnic at the Covered Bridge in Weybridge was successful—after the officers first conquered a bad attack of the “points” of food rationing. Senor Pattee spoke on the Latin-American situation to a very attentive club, one of whose constitutional aims is to promote comprehension and speaking knowledge by informal contacts. Miss Martin’s Mexican trip gave the members of the club another interesting meeting, which carried out another aim of the club—to unite all students interested in Spanish life, language, and culture.
At the monthly meetings of the club, only Spanish is spoken, and talks are given on different experiences relevant to the club's diversified interests. These talks may take any form; sometimes extracts from letters are read; at other times lectures are given by those who have lived or traveled in countries of Spanish culture, or an informal group of Spanish plays is presented.

To accommodate the new three term schedule, the club's constitution was changed, while the establishment of Wright House as a Spanish dormitory gave a new emphasis to Spanish Club activity.

The German Club

The German Club, a group organized to aid students who wish to increase their proficiency in speaking the German language, meets about once a month at Professor Neuse's home. Here members sing German songs, play games, and occasionally see movies of the German School at Bristol. After each meeting refreshments are served, and are well appreciated by the various members, even if such refreshments are not necessarily samples of German cooking. As the club is limited to advanced students of German, the group is both small and informal, which provides for a maximum of individual participation. This informality is evidenced by the fact that last year the members voted to abolish the offices of president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer which had previously been set up. Due to the crowded program, meetings were not held during the summer semester. However, those members who so desired went to the Bristol German School several times with Professor Neuse and there participated in folk dancing and other activities.

With the opening of the fall term the German Club will again function as a group. Future plans include the usual meetings with games and singing; in addition the members hope to be able to produce some German skits, but whether students outside of the club will be permitted to see these skits has not yet been decided. Last winter the German Club went carolling as a surprise to Professors Neuse and Skillings, and although the surprise element will be lacking, they hope to once more serenade these two professors at Christmas time.

Present members of the German Club include Peter Hoff, Janet Kemp, Audrey Nunnemacher, Barbara Nunnemacher, F. Lucie Suter, Charlotte Broemel, and Eric Bunzel.
Mountain Club

One of the most active organizations of Middlebury this year has been the Mountain Club. Ever since its inception in 1931, this club has been a pillar of college social life. The Governing Board, headed by Emory Mersereau, has had to use its ingenuity to combat wartime restrictions. It has been ably supported by the junior body, Skyline, which is comprised of twelve members selected from the three upper classes from whom the Governing Board will choose its successors.

Did some navy blue or white-clad stranger requiring a bike haul you out of bed bright and early on a Sunday morning? He was probably on his way to a Mountain Club hike. The slogan for the summer was "Join the Mountain Club and see Vermont from a bicycle seat." However, for the first hike, everyone walked out to Dog Team. Any Navy men or freshmen who were strangers when you left were your companions-in-arms by the time everyone staggered home. The level of the water in Dog Team is said to have risen several inches with two hundred Middleburyites and V-12ers splashing around in it. This hike was the first real introduction of the Navy men to campus outdoor life in Vermont. The bicycles were in force on another trip to Dog Team.

After the easy beginnings, the next step was a trip to Lake Dunmore. That cold water was certainly welcome after the nine-mile push on the way out. Those who lived through the first two hikes marshalled their forces and went on the twenty-one-mile trip to Lake Champlain. You cannot appreciate a hill until you have pedalled up and down both sides of it. After the dirt road Lake Champlain looked very attractive—almost good enough to help a hiker forget the trip home. The next hike included sixteen miles of riding and a climb in the rain up Snake Mountain.

With the lifting of the pleasure-driving ban the Mountain Club increased its scope. The trucks made their first trip to Lake Pleiad on September twelfth. All the delights of former years were recalled by the old-timers. Newcomers to Middlebury got their first real taste of a hike as it should be. The over-night hike to Glen Ellen for the most stalwart enthusiasts came next, with a Sunday climb up Mount Lincoln for the not-so-stalwart; then Moosalamo and Mansfield for the most intrepid climbers.
A Saturday night square dance with round and square dances and cider was the next thing on the docket. The culmination of Mountain Club activities in past years has been Carnival. This year the co-chairmen of Winter Carnival are Audrey Nunne-macher and Jean Lacey. An "All Midd" Carnival is planned. As in past years, it is hoped to have the Formal, Carnival Play, and Klondike Rush, which are the trimmings to the main skiing events. This year the skiing will probably be limited to Chipman Hill for exhibition and racing. At all events, the war certainly has not dampened Middlebury's enthusiasm for outdoor pleasures. The Mountain Club keeps everyone too busy for that.
This year Middlebury has a new club—the Student Action Assembly, founded last January by undergraduates. The Executive Council of the club, with its chairman, Hedvig Hogg, is bringing the Student Action Assembly into contact with the United States Student Assembly. Future intercollegiate meetings are being arranged, and the Women's Forum Discussion Committee has joined the Student Action Assembly Discussion Committee so that there will be no conflict or overlapping between the two programs. All this will help to promote the aims of the club—provision for a channel for student thought and action in both national and international problems, during the war and after the peace is settled.

Since the first general meeting of January 12, 1943, the constitution has been modified; the Executive Council is now composed of three chairmen who are in charge of the Executive Council, the Contacts Committee, and Discussions Committee, respectively. In addition to these chairmen there are three other officers, namely, the secretary-treasurer, and two representatives-at-large.
The purpose of the Women’s Forum is to assist in the work of the Community House, to maintain the Thrift Shop which sells donated clothing at low prices to needy townspeople, and to aid in relief work in case of emergencies resulting from the war.

Originally Forum was a group organized to discuss current questions on political and social problems, but with the founding of the Student Action Assembly it seemed superfluous to have two such discussion groups on campus. Therefore Forum merged with the Student Action Assembly, and their combined efforts have produced many worthwhile panel discussions on international problems. These discussions are held weekly, and the panel is usually comprised of students and one or more faculty members.

Forum members, guided by their president, Shirley West, are kept busy running the Thrift Shop, giving dancing lessons to Middlebury children, tutoring them, and at Christmas time giving the Ripton youngsters a party with presents, things to eat, and a genuine Santa Claus.

Encouraged by the response to the first Cultural Conference held last January, the Middlebury Humanities Studies originated and is continuing a series of discussion programs this year. The aim of this organization is as follows:

"Winning the war is of prime importance, but in winning military victory we must not destroy the heritage we are fighting to preserve. Our objective is to try to integrate and understand the lines of unification and assimilation between different fields, to the end of better understanding of our complicated civilization."

To fulfill this end, the Humanities Studies, under the leadership of Dorothy Brown, has brought to the entire community some of the benefits of the summer language schools, as well as the rich cultural background of those faculty members, advanced students, and townspeople who are proficient in their fields. Perhaps the most outstanding opportunity recently offered the student body by the Humanities Studies was that of hearing Robert Frost. This opportunity alone should warrant our wholehearted support of the group.
The idea for the annual Middlebury Conference had its beginning when a group of Middlebury students under the direction of Professor Petshek visited the economic conference at Williams two years ago. After they returned from Williams, several faculty members and students got together at the suggestion of Professor Petshek, and organized the first plans for a conference to be held at Middlebury. The final conference committee was made up of both faculty and students working together.

This year a second conference entitled "Cultural Values in a Changing World" was held at Middlebury, with Professor Kaiser as faculty chairman, Professor Bourcier as faculty secretary, and Edith Johansen as student representative. The date set for the occasion was the twenty-second and the twenty-third of January, and the time it covered was approximately the same as that of last year. An attempt was made to choose speakers with a broader view than those who were so highly specialized. Thus, with constructive development, the annual Conference is fast becoming a tradition at Middlebury.

Men's Sports

Faculty Athletic Comm.

The Athletic Council has heretofore regulated all men's athletics at Middlebury. Membership included the Athletic Director, five faculty members, one alumnus, the president of the Men's Assembly and the captains of all sports. This year sports have been so reduced that the Council is no longer necessary and a Faculty Athletic Committee makes all necessary rulings.

Baseball

The 1943 baseball season found both Navy and civilian students buckling down to make this year's team one of the best. The team, coached by Red Kelly, and captained by "Soc" Bobotas, a powerful contribution of the V-12 unit, ended the season with a record of four wins out of seven games played.

The Middlebury nine was marked by a sparkling infield, with Bob de Wolf and Al Lavallee at first, Captain “Soc” Bobotas at second, “Bobo” Sheehan, playing his last season of a colorful athletic career for Middlebury, at shortstop, and Eddie Card at third.

The outfield boasted such players as John (.067) Dillon in center, Dick Crescenti, leading hitter, in right, and Lloyd “China” Crocker in left. Johnny Urban and Paul Marrotte handled the slants of Norm Fenner and Joe Webber, another brilliant carryover from last year’s team.

Since the first scheduled game with Dartmouth was rained out, Springfield was the first opposition met on the diamond this year. This game started us out on the right foot with a 12-9 victory. The next two games were with Windsor and Springfield. The Panthers lost the first, 4-2, and took the second, 3-2. Middlebury put down Windsor when it met them again with a count of 9-3. This game was followed by an encounter with the high-ranking Dartmouth Indians who beat us, 8-2. The last two games of the season were played with Lebanon. We lost the first, 9-2, and retaliated in the second with a score of 9-4. Fenner pitched a fine three-hit game, thus bringing to a grand finale the 1943 varsity baseball season.

Tennis

As the college semester ended in April, Middlebury students were unable to witness any tennis matches during the spring. With the coming of fall, however, the tennis season got under way. Coach Brown arranged an intramural tennis tournament in which both Navy and civilian men participated. After several hotly contested games, Seabury Short and Charles Proctor emerged victorious in the semi-finals; Short, by defeating Francis McNally, and Proctor, by defeating Harold Geiken. These two boys, Proctor and Short, clashed in the finals. The victor was Proctor.

Any schedule for future tennis matches is of course uncertain, but judging from the fine response made by civilian and V-12 men to this first tournament, and by their evident desire to continue intramural competition, it is safe to say that Middlebury has good prospects of a fine tennis team for next season. The promising talent displayed in the tournament is certainly a good indication that we have the men and the material for a hard-hitting team.

In the individual sports, results were as follows: tennis—Proctor first, Haines runner-up; horseshoes—Pepin first, Bangs runner-up; golf—Engesser first, Young runner-up; handball—Cruess first, Baird runner-up.

Football

Midd's 1943 football season, suffering the trials and tribulations of all intercollegiate sports, was restricted to V-12 intramural touch football. The various platoons were divided and platoon games were arranged. Following the platoon games were company and battalion play-offs.

Company A won the company league championship, with Companies D and B right behind. Hepburn (Battalion I) won all battalion games over Gifford, and these games proved to be of great interest to everyone. Gifford displayed such stars as "Big John" Dillon, "Whitey" Hayden, Duca, Crocker, and Crescenti, but this array of football talent could not cope with the big linemen from Hepburn, namely, Kinney and...
McLean. Outstanding players on the end were Bransfield and Battistini, guards who rated mention were Krause, Jevinker, Waters, and Yanulis, and there were a number of good backs including Bobotas at quarter, Luck at fullback, Urban at halfback, and Steigerwalk and Skal. Gifford was coached and captained by John Dillon, and Hepburn was manned by Charlie Ruter.

Final scores for the entire season are as follows:

Basketball

This year the basketball season promises to be full of interest. Nine intramural teams are to be organized by November; eight from the eight respective platoons of the V-12 Navy Unit, and one from the civilian men. In December, there will be a reorganization of these teams. Another intramural league will be formed, and competition among the first teams will show which men are to be chosen for the Varsity.

The units of representation for this second league will be the different companies, battalions, and civilian men. Through December, this league will compete with teams from the surrounding towns. There will be no varsity men in this second league. In January and February, however, the Varsity itself will enter intercollegiate matches. The Varsity will probably be of very high caliber, judging from the number of Navy men that will be participating. Several stars from other high schools and colleges will have an opportunity to display their prowess. The basketball team, under the direction of Coach Brown, has always had a good record, and we are confident that, despite the war, Middlebury's colors will still be flying on the basketball court.
The W.A.A. Playday, held September twenty-fifth on the women's athletic fields, started off at 4:00 p.m. with two loud and riotous softball games. On the tennis courts other games were in progress, and the spectators were vociferous in their approval or disapproval of the playing. On the volleyball court the team facing the sun won, and victors and vanquished alike dashed for supper. Games about a roaring bonfire until all were almost exhausted, and then enthusiastic singing set a wonderful pattern for Playdays to come.

The W.A.A. Council is the governing board of women's athletics on campus. It meets on an average of twice a week, when it plans future athletic activities for all its members. At the close of the sports season the Council presents jackets, and awards are given to winners of individual tournaments, members of class championship teams and members of All-Midd teams.

With the opening of the summer term, Janet S. Harris came back to serve as president, Charlotte P. Hickox as vice-president, Mary L. Caswell as secretary, Helen A. Beardslee as treasurer, Margery Johnston as custodian, Barbara J. Young as manager of the cabin, and Elizabeth Drake as freshman representative. During the first term, two constitutional changes were made, through which more points were provided for those girls who showed skill in individual sports. The requirement of "B" posture for membership on an All-Midd team was dropped, and a posture program was instituted.
Archery

Because of damp weather the archery season was rather protracted this year. Nevertheless, of fifteen ardent archers who started, six undampened spirits were left for the Tournament. The contest, organized by Barbara Drury, head of the sport, was started with the usual Columbia Round, followed by variety in the shape of dummies topped by apples for the six William Tells to try their luck at. Mary Jean Snook was the final winner, with Betsy Drake second.

Softball

This season Navy blue made its appearance in W.A.A. softball, with a game between the women All-Stars and the sailors as one of the major events.

With Dorothy Ayers as manager, a regular schedule consisting of a round-robin tournament was played. The sophomores emerged triumphant from the struggle. Players chosen for the All-Midd team included Nancy Read, Barbara Young, Anna Skillman, Miriam Kendzur, Barbara Abel, Margery Johnston, Mary Caswell, Lucinda Darby, and Alice Thorn.

Tennis

In spite of the humid Vermont climate, women’s tennis really came into its own during the summer session. The W.A.A. tennis program, climaxed by the tournament in the fall, lent just the necessary competitive spirit to the already popular sport. Under the able managing of Audrey Nunne-macher, the successful season came to a brilliant close in the final match between Dolly Greene and Betsy Drake. Betsy emerged champion after a game that will go down in W.A.A. history.
Modern Dance

Under the capable leadership of Mrs. W. Storrs Lee, who was assisted this year by Mrs. William H. Madden, the Modern Dance Club has completed another successful year. Each year has seen an enthusiastic gain in membership, and a widening of the club's scope of interest. Characteristic of this is the equalization of representation from all the classes. This year the meetings in the summer were held on the lawn in back of Forest Hall—that is, until persistent rain forced the members indoors. Phyllis E. Reed is the president of this organization and is responsible in no small measure for the success of the club this year. The Modern Dance Club is connected with and participates in the W.A.A. program. The summer activities of this club were brought to a climax with the presentation of a ballet entitled "The Donkey." This ballet is based on one of Aesop's fables. In addition to the ballet, a Spanish Dance and a Shadow Dance were presented. This club offers to all an opportunity for interpretation, originality, and enjoyment.

Riding

One of the most enjoyable and most popular sports during the spring and fall days here at Middlebury is riding. On almost any sunny afternoon you may see students setting out from the stables just off campus for a brisk trot or a canter over the many bridle paths and trails of the Vermont hills. Wherever the route leads, whether to Bittersweet Falls, the Creek Road, or the Morgan Horse Farm, there is always the beauty of the countryside to supply never-ending enjoyment to the ride. The trip to the horse farm is a particular favorite because there are usually a number of young colts to be seen. This year, because of the failure of the weather to cooperate, the girls found it hard to complete their twelve hours of riding for W.A.A. credits. In addition, a horse show which had been planned had to be postponed. However, in spite of all difficulties, the group, under the very capable management of Priscilla Hodges, had a successful season.
Hockey

Almost every afternoon, comes fall, you can see the women’s athletic field filled with girls in red and blue pinnies. This is a sure sign that the hockey season is in full swing. Under Leonore Jenkins as manager, the four classes fought a hard and exciting battle, with the juniors emerging victorious. For the All-Midd team Argyle, Thorne, Darby, Luz, Snook, Bunce, Johnston, A. Robinson, Skillman, Harris and Cadbury were chosen as the top players of the 1943 season.

Soccer

Middlebury women who play W.A.A. soccer are not great in numbers, but what they lack in quantity they make up for in quality. Although their ranks have been thinned this year because of the apple-picking season, those girls who come dashing out on the field in the afternoon are most enthusiastic supporters of the game. Ingrid Monk manages the team, which has as its outstanding players Sally Curtis, Nancy Skillman, Patricia de Learie, and Mary Wisotzkey.

Volleyball

With the opening of the fall semester, volleyball will once more take its rightful place on the women’s campus. Under the direction of Mary Wisotzkey and the supervision of Miss Rosevar and the W.A.A., volleyball promises to be as popular a sport as ever. Class captains will be elected in the near future, interclass games will begin, and the season will as usual be climaxed with the choosing of the All-Midd team.
One of the most outstanding events of the past semester was the visit made to Middlebury by United States Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox. He came on the invitation of President Samuel S. Stratton to review the Navy V-12 Unit, and spoke from the steps of Monroe Hall to the officer candidates, the entire student body, and a great number of spectators. The occasion of Mr. Knox’s visit was marked by cloudless Vermont weather, and the V-12 Unit was an impressive sight as it passed in review. All of us felt a thrill of pride as we watched the color guard pass the reviewing stand and the Unit marching and counter-marching across the field. The one short month which had elapsed since these men had come to Middlebury had made of them a well-trained and well-disciplined Unit, of which we were justly proud.

Mr. Knox congratulated Middlebury's Navy men upon having the chance to begin their careers under such auspicious circumstances, and explained that the Naval Unit here represents, on a small scale, the 70,000 men who are being trained in other colleges all over the country for war service as commissioned officers in the United States Navy. He told the men that they must be prepared to meet rigorous ordeals in the future, and that this primary training would be immensely valuable to them. During the course of his talk Mr. Knox also mentioned his part in the two World Wars, in the first of which he served as a private, and in the second as a commissioned officer.

"You are fortunate in having this chance," he said. "It entails on your part the finest qualities you can command . . . . Every moment of time you have in training for these tasks is immensely valuable, and I pray and beseech you to make the most of them."

With the conclusion of this talk, Mr. Knox was saluted with a long and hearty cheer by the V-12 Unit.
The biggest social event of the semester, the Navy Formal . . . the transformation of the high school gym into the most nautical and delightful of ships, U.S.S. Middlebury . . . the scintillating music of Jerry Wald . . . soft lights, white uniforms, and rainbow-hued gowns . . . the grand and glorious mix-up after a grand and glorious March . . . and a wonderful time was had by all.
That first unpredictable and exciting "get-acquainted with the Navy" Dance . . . .
the two-somes that gradually evolved as the evening progressed, showing that the Navy
(thank goodness!) was human . . . . the Sophomore Cabaret, and the uproarious entertain-entertainment it afforded us . . . . the War Bond Victory Dance, the Mountain Club
Barn Dance, the Hepburn Follies . . . . and we conclude that gym dances are fun!

War Activities

The war-time, accelerated schedule of this past semester did not prevent Middlebury women from inaugurating a service program and doing their part toward helping to win the war. All have spent a good bit of time rolling bandages at the Red Cross Center here in town. Some, recognizing the acute shortage of help at Porter Hospital, volunteered their services as Nurses’ Aids, and their offer of help was gratefully received by the hospital staff. Some spent their time doing sewing and knitting for the Red Cross, while others preferred to help the war effort by lending a hand in the college garden. All have contributed generously to various organizations for the support of refugees, and have carried on their regular social service projects, as well. In addition to these activities, the women of Middlebury have helped to address and mail the Campus to Middlebury men in the armed forces. The Women’s College has responded enthusiastically to the demands of a war-time world.

Editor's Note:

Your 1945 KALEIDOSCOPE is in your hands! Middlebury has again published her annual during a war, despite the usual difficulties caused by a war. Naturally, the size has been reduced naturally there are fewer pictures, but such differences have been expected and even greater changes must be anticipated should a 1946 KALEIDOSCOPE follow. The traditional yearbook is important to all who have been a part of Middlebury and who will in the future desire to turn back to those days, to relive them in the pages of a book such as this. This year has been an unusual one for Middlebury, and one we will all want to remember. With these thoughts in mind, the staff presents the 1945 KALEIDOSCOPE. Your pleasure shall be our reward.

BARBARA DRURY

Acknowledgment:

The 1945 KALEIDOSCOPE has been created through the efforts of many. The staff itself deserves the greatest portion of credit for tireless effort and continual enthusiasm—for the latter especially the editor gives thanks. Credit goes, too, to the Sophomore tryouts, cooperative and responsive to the last. It is these tryouts who do a great deal of the actual work on the book and from whom the succeeding staff members are chosen.

Sincere appreciation for assistance in the designing and engraving of the book goes to the HOWARD-WESSON CO. in general; Mr. Dino G. Valz, Mr. Milton L. Fitch, and Mr. Frank E. Gleason in particular. For advice and further assistance in actual printing, many thanks to Mr. Harry M. Blodgett of the FREE PRESS PRINTING CO.; for cover manufacture, thanks to the KINGSPORT PRESS INC. and Mr. John E. Jackson.

Photography is one of the most important features in a yearbook, and one that is valued even more highly than usual in these days of film shortage. We offer thanks, then, to you, Mr. Andrew G. Phillips of GHERIN’S Studios, first. Second, to those of you who have cooperated at various necessary intervals: Mrs. Elizabeth B. Walsh, her assistant, Elaine Herron, Miss Mary S. Rosevear, Mr. A. W. Gove, Mr. Herman Bennett, Mr. Bruce Weidner, and students Nisette VanHemert, Philip Briggs, and Eugene Tompkins, A.S.

To the student body in general, thank you for your understanding and encouragement—we needed both!
